OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

NOAH CERTAINLY HAD A NUMEROUS CARGO.

It is probable the human population of this earth, itself only a spinning atom in sidereal darkness, rises to upward of 2,000,000,000 and is certainly not less than 1,650,000,000. But how many creatures of all kinds has prolific nature spawned upon this relatively minute speck in cosmos? If Noah took a pair of every living species aboard his ark, how vast an army did he have with him on his great flotation, and how large must have been that mighty bark?

Sir E. Ray Lankester, says the New York Herald, gives some illuminating and surprising figures in his "Secrets of Earth and Sea." He says that it is, to be sure, impossible to estimate the number of individuals in existence. But naturalists have identified and classified a huge number of kinds, breeds, or more correctly, species of animals, and plants. Not all, it is certain. There are ten thousand species of mammals, about fourteen thousand of birds, seven thousand of reptiles, fifteen thousand species of fishes, half million sorts of six-legged insects, fourteen thousand of crustacea such as shrimps, lobsters and crabs; sixty-two thousand of molluscs, such as snails, mussels, oysters, and the like; five thousand corals and polyps, three thousand sponges, six thousand microscopic protozoa, and many others.

In all about eight hundred thousand species of animals have been found. The scientist says probably as many more remain to be recognized and described. A single species may contain far more individuals than there are men on earth.

"The total number of described species of plants," adds Sir Ray, "has never been estimated, but some idea may be formed from the fact that 1,860 species of flowering plants alone have been found in Britain, seventeen thousand in British India, twenty-two thousand in Brazil not to mention those of Australia and Africa. These figures do not include the vast numbers of flowerless plants."

THE WHITE MAN'S BURDEN.

However long or short the time may be before the United States gives the Filipinos entire self-government or independence, or whatever else may be found best for them, the people of the Islands will never entertain any but the friendliest feelings toward this country. The Filipinos were formerly an oppressed people, arbitrarily governed by a nation that took no interest in them except to exploit them. They were without hope. They were the victims of insanitary conditions, and continuous poverty was their lot. The United States drove out the oppressor, established schools and hospitals, built highways and railroads, promoted agriculture and other industries, prepared the people for a large measure of self-government and extended to them all the control over their own affairs that wisdom would justify. When the Filipino of this or succeeding generations looks back over the history of his native land, he will thank the United States for what it has done, even if there have been some defects in administration, for the condition of the people of the islands has been infinitely better than it would have been if the government had yielded to those who wanted the Filipinos turned free to be the prey of selfish nations or the victims of their own internal dissensions.

WHY NOT A PUBLIC PLAYGROUND?

The season of the year has arrived when the youngsters want to play in the great outdoors. The streets and sidewalks are filled with them every day and one's blood runs cold at the many near accidents seen on the main streets of the city.

Had it ever occurred to you that Maysville should have at least two public playgrounds located one in each end of the city? The school grounds are used every day during the pretty weather but they are not as large as they should be and the children of Maysville should have all the room they need for ball diamonds and all other sorts of games.

We are not making an effort to start any sort of a drive. We are of the opinion that we have had enough drives to last for a time but we are calling your attention to this, which we consider, one of the greatest needs of the city, and someone may read this who will feel moved to do something for the kiddies who are not blessed with large back yards and indulgent parents. Two or three local men and women could finance the needed playgrounds and thereby become lasting benefactors of Maysville's youth.

SOME WOODPILE.

The approaching special session of Congress will probably have a record for constructive legislation that has not been surpassed for a decade. Tariff revision along lines of demonstrated soundness that will not only provide adequate protection for American industry but also yield a revenue perhaps twice as great as the law now on the statute books; a new internal tax law that will wipe out the cumbersome and depressive taxes to which the people are now subjected, that will be distinguished by simplicity and the equality with which its rates are distributed; an immigration law patterned after the measure that the former President failed to approve; a budget law like the bill that a Democratic President vetoed; soldier relief legislation designed to give our returned veterans that tender care denied them by the Democratic administration; and a host of bills of less importance, each drawn with the idea of contributing its share to the general welfare—that is the legislative program that the Republicans of the new Congress will attack with enthusiasm, assisted by the cordial co-operation of President Harding.

Music made by practicing members of the Boys' Band is not the only sort of music heard in our neighborhood. After hearing a midnight concert recently we predict that Maysville will make a better showing in the next census than it did in 1920 by several.

Candidates are very much interested in the welfare of other members of the family this year.

"DO IT WITH ALL THY MIGHT."

Build that house now; construct that highway at once; build that school, that church; repair that broken pavement; build that garage, and even that chicken coop, now—not tomorrow.

Go ahead with your plans; speed the nation on the road to full employment, and thus hasten the day of individual and national prosperity and safety.

Preach this from the pulpit, ye ministers of the Gospel; act it from the pews, ye laymen who profess a love for humanity; put it into effect, ye county, municipal and state officials, and remember, ye business men of America, ye men of "big business" and ye men of "little business," that there is something in this infinitely higher and more important than the small amount of money involved which you think you could save by waiting.

Some men put off the day of salvation, expecting to attend to it on their death bed, but not many ever succeed in doing it at that hour. "Do it now, and do it with all your might," should be the motto of every man in America who expects to do any construction work in the near future. "Do it now," and thus do your part toward individual and national business salvation—and even more.

Procrastination is more than the thief of time; it is the murderer of opportunity.—Manufacturers Record.

Another sure sign of returning prosperity—stock salesmen are getting thick in this section again.

REMARKABLE REMARKS.

The time is not far distant when any telephone subscriber on land will be able to reach ships at sea.—Prof. Alfred N. Goldsmith, College of the City of New York.

High cost of loafing is the mother of high cost of living. — Harry P. Strausbaugh, president, National Canners' Association.

I find no justification for issuing bonds for gravel roads. The money necessary to their construction should be taken out of the Motor License taxes.—George S. Henry, ex-Minister of Agriculture, Ontario, Canada.

We in the Sunflower State have a reputation for being able to raise more hell on short notice than any other set of people ever born. But nowhere else will you find more optimism than in Kansas.—Senator Arthur Capper.

Paris skirts now are three inches above the knees when the wind blows.—Teresa Rabasa, New York telephone girl returned from European tour.

It may surprise those who do not personally know me to be told that I have never been addicted to the use of alcoholic liquors.—Henry Watterson.

The state always should have on hand intermittent public works of ultimate value, but not immediate security.—Harrington Emerson, New York Efficiency Counselor.

Political leadership is generally achieved after a man, has made a success in business. In New York leaders are chosen after they have failed in business.—Senator Clayton R. Lusk, New York.

FEUDIST ESCAPES INTO HILLS ON A HAND CAR

After Killing Member of Feudal Family, John Bailey Overpowers Guard And Escapes Into Hills.

Baraboursville, Ky., April 8.—John Bailey, of Clay county, who, police say, shot and killed Beverly White, of Winchester, here Thursday, overpowered the deputy, who was guarding him while awaiting orders transferring him to Pineville jail for safe keeping, and escaped on a railroad hand car with friends.

Dozens of deputies, armed with rifles, gave chase in a locomotive. The chase led into the hills of Clay county where, it was found, Bailey and friends had abandoned their hand car.

Dozens of friends of White have joined in pursuit, while others are understood to be arming. Renewal of feud trouble is feared.

The Whites and Baileys have been enemies for years, trouble being started when two Whites were killed by two brothers of John Bailey. Beverly White was en route to Clay county, his old home, Thursday, when he met Bailey here, officers say, and the shooting followed.

COLVIN ASKS COUNTIES TO ELIMINATE SCHOOL DISTRICT

Frankfort, Ky., April 8.—In a letter to county boards of education George Colvin, State Superintendent, today advised them not to allow any more graded school districts to be formed, but to encourage those now in existence to dissolve and revert to the county systems. He said that most of them could not maintain high schools with the maximum rate, and that the consolidated schools meet the situation more satisfactorily. The law, he explained, does not debar a district from voting a tax in addition to the county rate.

CINCINNATI ROBBERS GET REGISTERED MAIL.

Cincinnati, April 8.—Four men in an automobile last night held up and robbed a United States postoffice mail truck near the West End station of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station here. Several pouches of registered mail were taken from the truck and carried away by the robbers.

The truck was followed from the railroad station by the automobile. On reaching an alley, two of the bandits boarded the truck, handcuffed the two postoffice drivers to the steering wheel and obtained the mail bags.

POSTOFFICE LOOTED OF $500.

Gallipolis, Ohio, April 8.—The postoffice at New Haven, W. Va., near Point Pleasant, was looted early Thursday of $500 in cash and stamps. Federal officers arrested Melville Grimm in connection with the robbery.

The early Romans broke a cake over the bride's head as a symbol of plenty.

Before Naming Your Executor

Think carefully of the disadvantages of naming an individual to act in that capacity. He is subject to every human misfortune, and your interests in his charge are imperiled accordingly. He may be inexperienced; he may prove incompetent or dishonest; he may be burdened with other duties; he may be absent when his presence is most needed; he may meet with an accident, become ill or mentally unbalanced; he will surely die, possibly soon.

This bank is better fitted to act as your executor than any individual. It performs its duties with intelligence, economy and fidelity because it is absolutely unbiased by any personal considerations and does its work with the combined training, ability and honesty of a number of men of proven character and successful business experience, and is surrounded by the strongest legal safeguards. We will gladly discuss with you the preparation of your will, no matter what the size of your estate.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — It isn't the hundreds of miles of pavement and the millions of people that furnish New York's fascination. It is the thousand of square miles of geography and the hundreds of millions of people represented here that does it. You can find the intriguing secrets of the West and the East within a few short blocks. For instance: I always knew the Italians were a gallant race. But I never appreciated the extent to which they carry their punctiliousness in such matters until I was meandering through the Italian quarter the other day and stopped in front of a bookshop. The window displayed several paper-bound copies of what Shakespeare and all the rest of us have called "Romeo and Juliet." And there, true Latin chivalry, was the famous romance entitled "Juliet and Romeo."

Store windows are apt to be interesting anyway than we realize until we acquire the habit of looking at them properly. There is a born enthusiast, evidently, running a fish and oyster market in the upper Seventies, who believes in driving a point home for all it's worth. The sign in his window the other day read: "Sea food is a brain tonic. Everyone should have a double dose. The effect is noticeable."

Even more exciting than a duchess right out in the open is a duchess incognito and hidden. New York society is consequently getting its fill of excitement over the story that the Duchess of Manchester, who was Helena Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, is here living in the city, incog. The duke of Manchester started the rumor. Some one asked him last week if the report of a divorce were true, and he replied, "I know nothing of the story. I have not seen the duchess for more than a year. She is now in New York." And Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, most intimate friend of the duchess, refuses to speak at all on the subject. One rumor is that the former Helena Zimmerman is living in the Vanderbilt country estate at Hyde Park-on-the-Hudson.

And still women keep on getting thin! Every season the overly plump ones peer eagerly into the future to see what comfort there may be there for them. "Straight lines are going out," one gleefully exclaims. "That means we'll be all right." Then lo! The curved lines come in which only show up surplus pounds with greater conspicuousness than ever. The spring and summer things are proof of this. Round waist lined, diaphanous models, and the rest of the innovations have none of the kind concealment that one found in Russian overblouses and moyenage effects, better known as "chemise frocks." Meantime physicians are divided over the benefits or harm of the lightweight year. "Women will ruin their health if this keeps on," say some. "It means that they cut down and down on their food until they are 'way undernourished.'" "It is a good thing for women that fashion does insist upon slimmness," says Dr. Newman 286 Fifth avenue, on the other hand. "It means better health, so long as they are sensible about it of course and eat enough and don't exercise too strenuously when they are past the age of strenuous action. Anyway those things are unnecessary. The slenderness of the traditional willow may perfectly well be combined with food and comfort." So there you are!

This is the sad tale of two young desperadoes from the great city of New York who met their Waterloo in the Long Island village of the humiliating name of Hicksville. That's what made it so especially tragic. Harry Perlat and Angelo Maglaczyn, 17 years old apiece, took two revolvers and a great deal of desperado spirit and journeyed forth to hold up Long Island. They got to Hicksville before anything happened. Then they met a six-foot farmer and decided the time had come for action. "Hands up!" they cried in unison with revolvers appropriately pointed. "Is this a hold-up?" inquired their victim. They assured him with some embarrassment that it was. "I've read about them," he said. "Well, come on with me and we'll see what we can do." So the three walked along chatting of hold-ups and so on, until they reached the victims' home. He seated the bold bandits in the parlor and excused himself for a moment. Then he returned and entertained his guests until the constable, whom he had phoned for that moment, arrived and took the two youths to the county jail.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES.

Uncle Ted Talks Propaganda. "What is a 'popgandy,' Uncle Ted?" It was Ruth speaking as her uncle entered the room after completing a late dinner.

"What?" responded that accommodating individual, hesitating in the process of unfolding the evening paper.

"A 'popgandy'."

"Why, I never heard of such a thing; where did you get that word?"

"I heard two men talking about them on the street car today. One of them said that the foreign popgandies are a menace to the United States," answered Ruth.

"Oh, you mean 'propagandists.' That's different. There isn't any such word as 'popgandy.' Those men you heard on the street car were talking about citizens of other countries who print papers or pamphlets, or write

TOO WEAK TO WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Quinly's Health. Now She Does Her Housework

Shelbyville, Mo. — "I was only able to do light housework because for months my periods were excessive. I had seen your medicine extensively advertised and thought I would give it a fair trial. I took about eight boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets according to directions and I feel like a different woman. I have not taken any medicine during the past three months and I believe my ailment is cured. I am now able to do all my housework and attend to my poultry and garden. If you feel that my testimonial will benefit anyone you are welcome to use it in your advertisements." — Mrs. L. D. QUINLY, R. F. D. No. 2, Shelbyville, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women strong, healthy, and able to bear their burdens and overcome those ills to which they are subject.

articles for magazines, or make speeches in this county, for the purpose of making the people of the United States believe the same way they believe concerning important public questions." Uncle Ted settled down in an easy chair and began to read.

"Well, are they a menace?" inquired Ruth.

"Not much of a menace—just a nuisance," replied her uncle, going on with his reading.

"But, Uncle Ted, that man on the street car said they are making lots of trouble, and the man he was talking to agreed with him," persisted Ruth.

"Oh, let Uncle go on with his reading; besides, you are bothering me when I want to finish this book before bed-time," exclaimed Jack.

"That's all right Jack, I can read later, and I rather think the subject Ruth has brought up is worth talking about," responded Uncle Ted. "I'll tell you all I know about it. Of course, nobody knows exactly how much foreign propaganda work is going on in this country, or exactly who the propagandists are. In order to accomplish what he sets out to do, a propagandist usually works secretly—get his ideas before the people without their knowing what he is about. He keeps under cover and mixes his anti-American teachings with other things so that many people would not notice what he was doing. Of course, some of them work openly, and the government is able to deal with those who are so radical as to be dangerous. The ones that work secretly are the cleverest and are really the most dangerous."

"Still, as I said before, I think they are more of a nuisance than a menace. Ruth, when is that old history you were showing me a few days ago—the leather-covered history written by Samuel Whelpley and printed 'way back in 1898? You remember I read something out of it to you and told you that if you would put it where it would be handy, I would tell you something more about it later."

"Yes, that's it. Now wait just a minute. Ah, here is what I wanted to find. More than a hundred and thirteen years ago, the historian Whelpley said in his book, when he was discussing American newspapers, 'We cannot omit the occasion of observing that several of our public papers have been conducted by foreigners, who, could it be presumed that they understood the nature of our government and civil policy, are utterly incapable of feeling any interest in, or concern for, either.' * * * It is a matter of serious regret that the people of our country should give them countenance, be led by them, and look up to the mass their political guides. * * *

We hope we shall not be though impertinent when we ask what would be the fate of an American printed who should go to London, or Paris, and set up his political manufactory upon so large a scale as those foreigners do among us."

"Now, remember, children, that was printed in a revised edition of Whelpley's history a hundred and thirteen years ago. I suppose the first edition was printed several years earlier. The point I want to make is that in the early days of this Republic a great historical writer was warning the country against the foreign 'popgandies,' as Ruth called them. But, in spite of the pests, we have gone on as a nation, growing and developing. The foreign propagandists have been working all these years, and have been troublesome at times, but the action has never been in danger from them."

"Oh, say, Uncle Ted, didn't you tell us once that the United States was in danger of being forced into a world club that would make us send our soldiers to Europe to fight wars over there, and that would give Europe the right to settle quarrels on this side of the Atlantic Ocean? Didn't the European people try to get us into that?" inquired Jack.

"Some of the foreigners wanted us in and some they didn't. Although I could not prove it, I very strongly suspect that there was a lot of foreign influence exerted here under cover to get us to go into the league, or world club. Then there has been a lot of foreign propaganda to get the United States to cancel about ten billions of debts due this country from Europe. And I am told that there is foreign propaganda intended to influence us in our merchant ship policy, and in our naval policy, and in our policy relative to putting a tax on foreign goods that come into this country."

"Now, maybe that man on the street car was right. Possibly those foreign people cause us a lot of damage by trying to guide our policies for us, but, as I said before, think they are an awful nuisance but not of any real danger. Of course, we have to keep watch on what they are doing and prevent them from misleading our own people, and that may be a good thing for the country. We take more interest in running our own affairs when we see outsiders trying to run them for us. Most of the leaders of the Socialists, who want to transform our government, are foreigners, but they are not really dangers to the country, for they work in the open and we can answer their arguments, or look them up if they advocate force or unlawful measures."

"If our old historian, Whelpley, had been writing in 1921 instead of in 1898, he would have written just about the same, except that when he asked what would be the fate of an American propagandist in London or Paris, he would have added Berlin, Moscow, Warsaw, Cork and Rome."

"Here is the trouble — if you try to shut off bad propaganda, you are likely to prevent some good propaganda as well. It is better to meet the foreign propaganda the best we can, and fight all the harder for America when we see foreigners here trying to make us see things their way. And I haven't any doubt about the outcome. You remember, don't you, that when Mr. Harding was a candidate on a straight-out 'America First' platform, the people elected him by seven millions plurality, the biggest victory won by any candidate for the presidency since Washington's time."

ACT QUICKLY

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Ask your neighbor.

Plenty of Maysville evidence of their worth. Fred Dresel, proprietor tailor shop, 1238 East Second street, Maysville, says: "I am glad of the opportunity to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder and annoyance from my kidneys. When passing the secretions they burned terribly and often bordered on a stoppage. I had severe aching pains across the small of my back which greatly interfered with my duties. I was telling a friend how my kidneys acted and he advised me to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Wood & Son's Drug Store. I began taking Doan's and they gave me prompt relief. Doan's did me lots of good and I know they are an excellent remedy."

Mr. Dresel gave the above statement February 6, 1908, and on November 22, 1920, he added: "I think just as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did when I gave my former recommendation many years ago. My cure has been a lasting one."

Price 60 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills — the same that Mr. Dresel had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

APRIL 10, 1921.

Topic: Bible Reading About Health. I Corinthians 6:19-20; I Corinthians 6:24-27.

REV. J. J. DICKEY.

What is the Bible teaching about health?

Does the Bible teach that disease is a curse sent upon men as a punishment for their sins, or does it teach that disease is the result of man's violation of the laws of health?

Certainly God has stamped upon man's nature certain laws of health which being violated brings disease, and if obeyed produces health. We are told by scientists that one-half of the deaths is the result of preventable diseases. When disease has been incurred God often uses it to bring man to seriously consider their relation to God, and this often results in man's reformation. God's interest in the health of mankind was clearly shown in the laws of Moses. That code has much instruction on food and sanitation. Temperance in eating and in drinking and in exercise is one of the most effective means of promoting health; and temperance is every where urged in the Bible. The appetites of the body when too freely indulged inevitably produce evil results.

In the text of the lesson Paul says, "But I buffet my body, and bring it into bondage, lest by any means after that I have preached to others I myself should be rejected." Here the idea is brought out that to lose control of the body imperils the soul. We are taught in the Bible that our bodies are temples of the Holy Ghost therefore they should be kept pure.

We have no account of Christ ever being sick. The presumption is that he was subject to the laws of health. Jesus healed diseased bodies just as he healed diseased souls, but this does not argue that he was the author of disease any more than the author of sin. In the third epistle of John he wishes that "the well beloved Gaius might prosper and be in health, even as his soul prospered."

The Bible is not a book on either hygiene or sociology but from its teachings we can easily gather that Christian people are obligated to study and practice both. A clean heart naturally inspires a desire for a clean body, and the love of God leads one to look on the condition of his neighbor.

The church is taking more interest in the bodies of men today than formerly. The relation of soul and body is very intimate. The sayings of the Latin poet, Horace—"A sound mind in a sound body"—has become a slogan of the church. The church now holds itself responsible for ignorance of the masses who suffer from their lack of knowledge of the laws of health and it is well that it so. In last Sunday's lesson we were exhorted "to present our bodies a living sacrifice holy, acceptable to God." If they are holy they must be free from pollution. Drugs and narcotics that enervate the body must be denied. The laws of eating drinking must be observed. Cleanliness practiced and no unholiness performed by these consecrated temples of the Holy Ghost. There is much food for thought here, and we do well to study the question assiduously. The abuse of the body is undoubtedly a sin, and sin separates us from God. Violent exercise is not healthful. The all-night dance is a sin against the body, so is the violent practice of the prize fight. Let us study God's laws both in the Bible and in his great book of nature and conform our lives to the teachings contained therein.

RURAL SCHOOLS NOT RECEIVING SQUARE DEAL, SAYS SPEAKER.

Louisville, Ky., April 9. — That America is becoming "city mad," and that children in the rural sections of Kentucky have not received a square deal in education, were statements made by Prof. Robert P. Green, formerly of Bowling Green, Ky., but now State Supervisor of High Schools, with offices at Frankfort, in an address delivered before the alumnae club of the Girls' High School.

Professor Green said that until recently there were four county superintendents in Kentucky receiving as little as $600 annually, and offered this as proof of his assertion that the real value of schools has not been appreciated in Kentucky. The speaker said, however, that he was of the opinion that the educational outlook in Kentucky is improving.
